Solves.

[EXCERPT TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—Petitions signed by voters of Wisconsin will be filed upon the desk of Governor James O. Davidson asking that he put aside his personal inclinations and re-visit his business plans and again stand for the republican nomination for governor. These petitions are now in circulation all over the state and are being so freely signed that the prediction seems safe that the present governor will ultimately announce that he will postpone his contemplated engagement in business at Stoughton and continue in charge of the executive office if the voters of the state so will it.

(Governor Davidson has now completed four years in that office and will have served half a decade continuously by the time his present term expires. His first year was by succession to the governorship when now Senator R. M. La Follette gave up the executive for the top position. Then Governor Davidson was elected in his own right after a strenuous contest in which Senator La Follette opposed him with L. L. Lounsbury of Superior as his preferred candidate. A re-election was accorded Governor Davidson practically without opposition so far as the republicans were concerned, making five years in all a period equal to that served by La Follette.)

Having served five years as lieutenant governor, four years as state treasurer and several years in the assembly, Governor Davidson neglected his private business affairs and announced repeatedly his unalterable determination to retire at the end of his present term, henceforth leave politics alone and devote himself to business so that he might add some material store for his family and against encroaching years.

In fact, he made arrangements months ago to enter the tobacco business at Stoughton, near here, in company with two close friends, Messrs. Homal and Sime. He also purchased a site for home in the country at Lake Kegonsa, four miles from Stoughton. Death interfered with these plans by removing Mr. Homal but the determination to engage in business remained with the governor.

So emphatically did he declare his intention to retire from politics that considerable apprehension was aroused among his friends, who had thought he was not serious in his early statements with reference to plans for the future. Many citizens called at the capitol and requested the governor not to be too positive about his purpose to retire, earnestly suggesting that he make no declaration that would prevent him from accepting a nomination for another term or from making the race against La Follette for the United States senatorship.

"I will never go through another political campaign" was the inevitable reply of Davidson. This put the mortal suggestion in the impossible category, for whoever opposed Senator La Follette for re-election will have a battle on his hands, notwithstanding the growing impatience of republicans of the state with the open alliance of the Wabash senator is making with the democratic majority against the republican organization of Washington. However, the friends of Governor Davidson are taking him at his word never to go through another campaign and they will represent to him that he is desired by the voters of the state to continue as governor without the necessity of passing through a campaign.

That they are quite likely to make good on this proposition is evidenced by the tightening of the noose in the struggle which the La Follette followers are making for the republican gubernatorial nomination. Strange, McClellan, Lewis, three La Follette men already in the field for the nomination, each with the announcement that for him there will be no withdrawal whatever happens and then Morris and Barker, two more La Follette men, without announcement for now, but just as truly candidates as the others are. There are then five La Follette candidates for the republican nomination for governor. They are spread all over the state. Each will run strong at home. The friends of Governor Davidson assert that for the present governor, with his wide popularity all over the state, to just let his friends use his name as an availability for the nomination would bring him the plaudits with a slender cause. "Just like taking candy from a kid," they say.

To a fair observer it seems that they are certainly correct. P. E. McGoey, La Follette's gubernatorial candidate in Milwaukee, will run ahead of the others in the metropolis. Captain J. Mitchell Lewis of Racine will run strong among the La Follette faction in the southeastern corner of the state. John Strange of Oshkosh will run strong up in the paper-making country, although he is at odds with La Follette on the tariff and some other matters. State Senator Thomas Morris of La Crosse and Harry Barker of Sparta will give many La Follette faction voters in the western part of the state, but Governor "Jim" is known all over the length and breadth of the commonwealth.

In the primary election plurality wins. Four years ago in a two-man fight Davidson swept the state. Two years ago he was alone in the field for the republican nomination. For the La Follette people to think that cal and Natural History survey to aid and advise me to design and cost, also the best kind of bridges to use in our towns, thereby helping inexperienced officers to use good judgment in dealing with sharp agents of bridge construction companies.

Following the talk on roads, two able addresses were presented on "Sowing" and the best methods of handling this important branch of agriculture. The first thing for farmers to do is to pick out a acre from one of the four leading breeds—the one he can do the best with—and stick to the same, and with good breed sows he will be able to provide pork for market that will bring top prices.

Mr. Morgan's paper on Bertholdites was considered as fair and impartial. Shopiere, Feb. 19.—On Friday afternoon closed one of the most successful farm institutes ever held in this section, both from standpoint of interest and attendance, which would have been even greater if it had not been for the bad condition of roads, every session being well attended, and nearly every subject ably discussed by speakers and also by farmers in open discussion.

The institute opened Thursday morning, a little late, owing to delay of trains. Mr. Stiles gave a very instructive address on the different kind of soils found in the state and different methods of conserving and improving the fertility of same. The upper grades of the village school were very much interested in his description of the formation of the different kind of soils by process of erosion and crumbling of the earth's surface, also the action of the glacier period, and lastly the conserving of vegetable matter humus, by the dying and decaying of prairie grasses and leaves and timber of forests for years previous to the advent of man.

Then he showed how for years men have been continually rubbing the soil of its best elements by cropping year after year without returning anything to replace that which was taken from it, and for the best interests of the state country farmers must cease being soil robbers and turn their attention to the feeding of soil so as to leave our homes and farms in a higher state of fertilization, thereby enriching our own pocketbook, and doing our duty to coming generations.

Following him came Mr. Roberts with an able address on clover and grasses. He claims more money is lost every year by farmers failing to sow enough seed per acre and thereby failing to get a good stand, than there is any need of, and that clover is the farmer's best friend, it being the most satisfactory feed for dairy cows and the cheapest fertilizer for enriching the soil. It worked both ways, by drawing nitrogen from the air and mineral from deep down in the soil.

After a bountiful dinner which was served by the ladies, the subject of "Sheep" was taken up. The greatest objection made by the common run of farmers to raising sheep in Wisconsin was that the land was too expensive. By comparing the high priced land of England where sheep raising was carried on successfully, the speaker proved that this was a fallacy and out of date. Then comparing sheep with cattle the speaker claimed that we can feed one thousand pounds of mutton at the same ratio that we can feed one thousand pounds of dairy stock, and taking every thing into consideration, labor and money invested, the return will be equal and the work much more pleasant.

Sheep raising is a good thing for the boys, he continued, teaching them the idea of stock raising. Let a boy have a couple of ewes, feed and care for them, keeping the wool, and increase the flock. This is one way to draw his attention to the farm because this work is profitable and pleasant. Sheep raising is not a lazy man's job; it needs a man of sound judgment, and the disposition to make a good shepherd, one willing to work and able to stand disappointments. The secrets of the bushmen are that the sheep must have plenty of exercise, water, proper care with regular feeding and a good variety of food.

W. F. Stiles of Lake Mills stated that the dairy products of Wisconsin for the past year amounted to 70 millions of dollars, and that the dairy business is a desirable one because there is not as much danger of over production as in some other branches of farm work. He stated that the outlook at present was that the demand is and will be greater than the source of production.

A farmer must make his choice from one of the dairy types and then keep his herd growing better by the use of good stock of good dairy breed. A score card denotes the true test of a cow's future usefulness and is the only satisfactory test from a financial standpoint can be attained by the use of scales and a Babcock tester.

B. Hawk of Clinton now gave an address on the art of getting eggs in winter. The three main essentials for getting eggs in winter is that we have the house, the fowl and their proper care. The house must be dry, warm, and light and properly ventilated, situated on the ground, properly drained with double wall, lined between with paper in preference to an air space. Overcrowding is one of the greatest evils and cause of non-production of eggs. The age is also important. Pulletts hatched in March are the best winter layers, with yearlings next. Careful feeding with grains and vegetables, scraps and meats that will be easily taken the place of the natural feed obtained by fowls in the summer months, will go further to solve the problem of getting winter eggs than any other one thing we can do.

Thursday Evening.—With about two hundred in attendance and a program which held its hearers for two hours in rapt attention, the people of Shopiere and vicinity did themselves "proud" by giving the best entertainment attended by Institute workers during this winter's work, regardless of size of any city or town in which they have presided.

Mr. Kuelling, on Friday morning, gave an able address on good roads and essentials needed in the making of the same. The first essential is a man or head who knows how and is willing to go ahead with the work; second, men to labor who are willing to learn and to work; thirdly, material of the right composition, and a proper knowledge to see that the same is properly applied in places where most needed. He also took up the building of culverts and bridges and explained how each town could resolve, without cost, the services of the trained engineers of the State Geologi-

WATER TOO MUDDY, WOMEN TOO CHESTY, JAPS GOT PEEVISH

Nipponese Commissioners Air Their Views Upon Return to Tokyo.

Just what the snipe and inscrutable Japanese Imperial Commissioners of Commerce thought of the United States, its institutions, men, drinking water, but more especially its women, may prove interesting reading for those who think that Americans are pre-eminently the world's leading race and for those women, especially the suffragettes, who believe that, at least in the United States, women are fast closing their rightful place in national life. Although the representatives of the Mikado slightly evaded all attempts to make them tell what they thought of this country and its inhabitants, even while they were being feted and lionized, they unburdened themselves upon their arrival in the land of the rising sun and it is from the columns of the "Tochigi," a Japanese newspaper, that their opinions were taken.

For instance, the manner in which the typical American man bows and defers to women and meekly obeys orders from the feminine portion of his household is enough to disgust any self-respecting Jap who has any regard for his dignity to know that man should be lord and master. Indeed, the meekness of the American man before the American woman outfit got on their nerves and made them almost peevish.

In fact, they could not get away from their disdain at the meekness of American men, and in Hochi's summary of nine things about America which they could not admire, four of them were "extreme respect for women," "pretension of respect paid to ladies," "too much respect for women," and "presumptuous attitude of women over men." Other things in American life which did not appeal to them were "the fact that Americans wear their heart upon their sleeves" and "ingraining of boys among girls in school."

When the commissioners were in Chicago they looked out over muddy Lake Michigan. Then they were told that there buy Chicago's supply of drinking water. They looked pleased and shut their eyes as they gulped down the water supplied to them during their stay there, but when they got home they put among the nine objectionable things which they had found in America "the supply of bad water in the lakes in the neighborhood of Chicago for our drinking."

American shopkeepers, like American women, the commissioners found entirely too free and independent to suit their tastes. They included the "unreasonable exorbitant" on the part of shopkeepers in the list of unpleasant features of their tour and added the worship of wealth and material things as the final item in their catalogue.

The Japanese could not admire American dexterity in both talking and speech-making, an accomplishment possessed by both men and women. The modern improvements they saw on all sides also called forth their praise, and the "but" they made of things that pleased them is as follows:

The marvelous development of industry.

Investment of great funds in water-works.

Americans' faithfulness to public duty.

Application of modern science to factories.

Dexterity in talking and speech-making.

Perfect equipment of schools, parks and charitable establishments.

Perfect hotel accommodations.

Their interview with President Taft was one of the pleasant memories which the commissioners took back with them, and they also paid tribute to the good will which Americans at all times bore toward the party and the general kindness which they found characteristic of the people of this country.

The "quickness, facility, smartness and activity" characterizing Americans also favorably impressed the visitors from the island empire and they were inclined to conclude that in spite of the fact that the country has a good many desirable features.

Why Trees Grow Large.

Washington and Oregon have some of the largest trees in the world and the climatic conditions of that section are responsible for this fact. In the Puget sound country the rainfall is about 53 inches, while up in the higher Cascades, near Seattle, it is 100 inches, and sometimes reaches the 150-inch point. Under such climatic conditions the seeds of the trees germinate readily and all the trees continue to make a vigorous growth.

Word comes again through the usual sources that work will begin on the postponed building this coming summer. The statement is made so often that it does not create much enthusiasm although it is said that the plans are nearly completed. The building will face on Pleasant street and have an East Grand avenue entrance also. It is expected that the building will cost at least $75,000.

While the college officials declare that no action has been taken to discontinue the academy, they say that the matter has been discussed and friends of the school say that they hope that the necessary endowment will be secured to warrant the continuance of the school. Since so many good high schools have developed there is not now the need of the academy but for the college, but there are many who are loath to give it up, and it may continue.

TRY TO FIND HIS MOTIVE

Witness Is Closely Questioned by Secretary's Counsel to Ascertain If His Action Was Innocent or Malicious
—Testifies from Hearay.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Louis H. Glavis, when cross-examined by counsel for Secretary Ballinger at the resumption of the Pinchot inquiry, admitted that no evidence of fraud in the Alaska coal cases had been presented to the department at the time Mr. Ballinger went out of office as land commissioner, in March, 1908.

The witness declared, however, that Mr. Ballinger, in his opinion, had not acted as a man would act if the property had been his own instead of the government's.

Testify from Hearay.

As to Ballinger's participation in the Wilson Coal Company case, Glavis admitted that he had no first-hand knowledge and that he had testified merely from hearsay.

Mr. Vertrees questioned the witness more closely than ever before, announcing that he was trying to find the motive of the witness and to ascertain whether it was innocent or malicious.

Names Improper Acts.

Mr. Vertrees asked Glavis to name acts of Mr. Ballinger which he considered improper.

"His first act," replied Glavis, "was when he returned from Washington to Seattle, where I conferred with him and told him of the evidence I was sec-had an commissioner all the information concerning these cases, deliberately represented the coal claimants themselves. He represented claimants in the Cunningham and other groups."

SMOOT YIELDS ON POSTAL BANK

Tentatively Promises Taft to Abandon Amendment to Bill.

Washington, Feb. 19.—President Taft had no guests at luncheon. Senators Aldrich and Smoot, the purpose of their entertainment at the White House, was to bring the latter in line with the administration view regarding the postal savings bank bill. Mr. Taft made it clear that he thought the Smoot amendment, which would prevent the board of trustees from withdrawing postal bank funds from local banks for investment elsewhere, would make the measure unconstitutional.

Although unconvinced that his amendment would menace the constitutionality of the measure, Mr. Smoot told the president that he was unwilling to take the responsibility of a possible veto by the president. It is said he agreed to abandon his amendment if the best lawyers of the Senate took the position that it should not be adopted.

CONGER FIGHTS SHY OF TELLING ABOUT BRIBES

Allied Counsel Attempts to Discover Disposition of Money Paid Advisers.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Senator Conger's counsel, James W. Osborn, strenuously resisted the efforts of counsel for Senator Aldis and other senators in the investigation of the bribery scandal, to get from Senator Conger what he knew about the distribution of the $4,000 alleged to have been paid to Assemblyman Burnett to defeat highway legislation which the bridge trust opposed.

After protracted wrangling as to the legality of the demand made upon Senator Conger for this information, Chairman Davis ruled that he would take until next Tuesday to decide whether Conger could be properly called upon to give such information as he may have about the ultimate disposition of the $4,000 placed in the envelope handed by "Denton" Moe to Burnett.

Efforts to have Senator Conger tell who were the legislators who made the demand for a fund of $10,000 when the highway legislation was pending in 1905 also failed. He said he had personal knowledge of such a demand, but could not name to who made the demand.

When Senator Conger was asked why he did not rise in his place in the assembly and tell of the corrupt demands which were being made upon him to protect the bridge interests his reply was: "With the speaker and leader of the assembly demanding blackmail, I didn't think it would do any good to tell that legislature."

Senator Conger on redirect examination gave a "clean bill of health" to certain senators and assemblymen whose names he had previously named as those legislators whom he had conferred relatively little on legislation which the bridge trust was seeking to defeat by various methods.

PLAN A WASHINGON MEMORIAL.

President Taft and others Urge Erection of a Monument at Once.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 19.—The plan to erect a massive building to Washington in the "bill of health" received impetus today at a meeting held under the auspices of the George Washington Memorial Association. It was presented over by Justice Jaelin of the supreme court and among the speakers who urged that the plan be carried out speedily were President Taft and Senators Lodge and Hepburn.

The plan of the association requires that a fund of $2,500,000 be raised, $2,000,000 of which will be devoted to the erection of the building and the remaining $500,000 to its maintenance. Certain sections of the building will be turned over, free of charge, to societies of patriotic, scientific or educational character, for their national and international conventions.

The Washington Academy of Sciences and its affiliated societies, and the National Academy of Sciences are to have their permanent headquarters in this building, and probably a number of the larger patriotic societies.

WILL ASK PAROLE REHEARING.

Attorney Will File Request with Supreme Court for Review.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Attorney General Wilbur H. Stead of Illinois will petition the Illinois supreme court to review his decision in the case of the people vs. Joseph A. Joyce, by which the parole act of 1899 was denied.

This was caused by the receipt of a long distance telephone message from the attorney general's office in Springfield by the inheritance tax office in Chicago.

The message follows, just as it was received by Mr. Stead's Chicago office:

"Attorney General Stead will immediately request the supreme court to review his decision in the Joyce case.

Such a review would inevitably tend to more clearly fix the status of certain officers holding offices apparently affected by said decision."

NEW YORK BAKERIES COMBINE.

Claim Reduction in Expenses Will Re-

New York, Feb. 19.—Announcement of the formation of a $6,000,000 bread trust was made by representatives of one of the largest wholesale bakeries in New York.

These bakeries have a capacity of 11,000,000 barrels of flour a week and now supply a great part of Manhattan and the Bronx, Brooklyn and Hoboken.

It is claimed that expenses will be reduced 25 per cent, and that, therefore, the price of bread may be reduced.

It is declared that the price certainly would not be raised.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Senator Conger's counsel, James W. Osborn, strenuously resisted the efforts of counsel for Senator Aldis and other senators in the investigation of the bribery scandal, to get from Senator Conger what he knew about the distribution of the $4,000 alleged to have been paid to Assemblyman Burnett to defeat highway legislation which the bridge trust opposed.

After protracted wrangling as to the legality of the demand made upon Senator Conger for this information, Chairman Davis ruled that he would take until next Tuesday to decide whether Conger could be properly called upon to give such information as he may have about the ultimate disposition of the $4,000 placed in the envelope handed by "Denton" Moe to Burnett.

Efforts to have Senator Conger tell who were the legislators who made the demand for a fund of $10,000 when the highway legislation was pending in 1905 also failed. He said he had personal knowledge of such a demand, but could not name to who made the demand.

When Senator Conger was asked why he did not rise in his place in the assembly and tell of the corrupt demands which were being made upon him to protect the bridge interests his reply was: "With the speaker and leader of the assembly demanding blackmail, I didn't think it would do any good to tell that legislature."

Senator Conger on redirect examination gave a "clean bill of health" to certain senators and assemblymen whose names he had previously named as those legislators whom he had conferred relatively little on legislation which the bridge trust was seeking to defeat by various methods.

When Senator Conger was asked why he did not rise in his place in the assembly and tell of the corrupt demands which were being made upon him to protect the bridge interests his reply was: "With the speaker and leader of the assembly demanding blackmail, I didn't think it would do any good to tell that legislature."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

I've had a heap of fun and I've had a heap of sorrow,
I've had a heap of pleasure and I've had a heap of pain,
But I'm tredding just as gaily, just as bravely toward tomorrow,
And I'm looking for the sunshine, but I'm ready for the rain.Always hoping for the best,
For the peace and perfect rest,
Always hoping for the sunshine and the roses dripping dew;But should gloom and sadness come
They will find me never gloom,
I will greet old grim misfortune with a cheery how-d'yous,I've had a heap of winning, and I've had a heap of failing,
I've had my share of praises, and I've had my share of blame,
And I've come to the conclusion that life's sea on which we're sailing
Is made up very justly of proportions of the same.For the calm and pleasant weather I am thankful altogether,
And I'm hopeful, ever hopeful, that no more storm-tossed I'll be,
But should storm clouds quickly lower,I will never shrink nor cover,
But I'll face the gale serenely and I'll try to ride the sea.

Detroit Free Press.

The sentiment expressed in this homely little poem is so full of optimism that it merits more than passing thought. If it was more generally adopted this old world would present a brighter aspect.

One of the peculiar things about optimism is that it constantly crops out in corners where least expected. The man who has occasion to look on the bright side of life is frequently pessimistic, while his neighbor, not so richly endowed in material wealth, lives in the sunshine of hope and contentment.

A man came into the office the other day coughing enough to tear his lungs out. The next day he was no better, and a friend suggested that he ought to be doing something for cold.

"Oh!" he said, "I'm alright, and another dose or two of Christian Science will fix me up," and it did not the next time he appeared there was no trace of a cold. Then he said: "If the new science of healing would work as well as a collapsed pocket-book I would be alright," and he was alright, for neither the cold nor the pocket-book worried him.

The cold disappeared like magic, and the hope that fortune would favor at no distant date held him steady. Christian Science is a new name for mental healing, but the science itself is as old as the hope which inspired the two sisters so long ago when they stood with the Master at the sepulchre of their brother.

The mind has so much to do with the body that it is responsible for most of the diseases with which humanity is afflicted. The truthfulness of this statement is recognized more and more as time advances.

An old school physician said during the holiday: "Business is always quiet from about the middle of December until the middle of January." Asked how he accounted for it, he said:

"Well, people are so busy getting ready for Christmas that they have no time to think about their aches and pains, and it takes about two weeks in January to renew the development."

That's about the size of it, and by the same token if the Christmas spirit occupied the mind twelve months of the year, and there was devoted to thinking of others more than of one solves the most of us would fade away like a daisy at the end of a long career.

And why not? The good Lord who created us planned the delicate mechanism for service and endurance. The triple nature, with which we are endowed, is so finely adjusted that all necessary for creation and wear is eliminated, and, in our accident, the average man and woman should live out allotted time and beyond the age limit free from disease and suffering.

The anti-meat crusade, which is commanding so much attention, is a good thing in more ways than one. It is not only reducing the price of meat, but it is also giving many a tired stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

The green goggles, through which so many people view life from the pessimistic standpoint, are colored with a vivid hue by chronic indigestion, for the stomach and the mind are so closely associated that one influences the other at almost every stage of the game.

When the mind is active, and the digestive organs sluggish, imagination runs riot and all sorts of things are liable to happen. You wake up in the night for no apparent reason, but soon discover a hand below the bed like the result of an undigested supper.

Then the brain gets busy. You count your pulse and find that the heart is working overtime and in half an hour you have given up all hope of living till morning, but you manage to pull through, and tackle the same the next day, and in this become a chronic invalid, and a charter member of the pessimistic club.

The man who takes a hopeful view of life is never a gormandizer, nor a heavy eater, because the digestive organs are exercised, and thought, which should travel out to broader fields, is confined to the narrow horizon of personal discomfort.

Under these conditions a gloomy one becomes a hobby, and a man with a hobby is the bluest man on earth. If he imagines he is sick you offend him by telling him that he is looking well.

If he is a disciple of the Chicago Tribune he is sure that the country is going to the bad at breakneck speed, which nothing will check but the death of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, for Cannon is to be the one and only hope of the next campaign.

If he belongs to the church his mind is bogged with the notion that "things ain't as they used to be," for there is none righteous; no one.

The notion has long been popular that cheerfulness is contagious, but the condition of the public mind, at the present time, indicates that the microbe of discontent and pessimism has produced an epidemic, for all over the land the feeling of unrest prevails.

Many magazines and a few daily papers are the recognized leaders, and the periodicals seem, so broadly scattered, to bear abundant fruit. The administration of President Taft has been so widely discredited that well-informed people are influenced and the name of "Uncle Joe" Cannon is like a red rag to a bull.

In efforts to solve the question of the cost of high living almost everybody is taking a hand, and in spite of universal prosperity many people are surprised that they are able to live at all.

There are more people engaged just now in trying to run other people's business than at any time in the history of the country. The government wants to run the corporations, when it lacks the ability to run the postoffice department and keep it out of debt.

Collier's and the Chicago Tribune aspire to run the government, and so, all down the line, people are busy and unhappy because things don't run in their particular rut.

The people generally undertake to look the hog out of countenance for 30 days, but the hog showed its independence yesterday by going up to top-notch prices.

There are a lot of things to be thankful for even in these days of strenuous discontent, and conditions are not half as bad as they seem.

The tariff may be too high, but the mills and shops manage to keep running with employment for everybody at good wages. The House of Representatives may be annoyed with rules, but who cares? We are not in the house. Let the other fellow worry.

The magazines may be throwing a few spasms for exercise, but what of it? That's the way they amuse and hold their constituency.

The railroads, the sugar trust, and the Standard Oil company may all be going to the bad. If they are let them go! We are still traveling for two cents a mile, growing fat on five-cent sugar, and reading by the light of ten-cent oil. That beats an ox team, a sorgum mill and a tallow dip forty ways.

There might be some occasion to worry about Taft, but what's the use? Roosevelt is coming home in June, and then everything will be alright.

The trouble with the most of us is that we live, too much in the future. We enjoy poor health so much that we anticipate it and get so much satisfaction out of trouble that we horrow it, whenever our stock runs low.

A little more living by the day, a little more sunshine on the way, and the clouds will disappear, and the light that's over near, will dispel the gloom that threatens, never fear.

OPPORTUNITY.

Is the old adage, which is the theme of Ingalls' poem, that "Opportunity knocks but once at every man's door" true one?

Or—

It is true, as some one has said, that Opportunity knocks at our doors every day, but that few of us take the trouble to GET UP AND OPEN THE DOOR!

There is the old illustration of Newton and the falling apple. Newton got up and opened the door of his mind. Opportunity came in in the guise of an idea. And that idea changed the world's thinking.

Many of us muffle our ears when Opportunity knocks.

Napoleon never did that. Opportunity never knocked at his door in vain. His thinking was always ahead of his foot thinking. He got up in the morning before the enemy got up—if he had to stay up all night. If the other general had a larger army, Napoleon segregated it, into sections and whacked the sections one at a time.

Opportunity is an early riser.

Ethan Allen took Ticonderoga while the garrison was asleep and did it in the name of Jehovah and the Continental congress. He had no authority from either. But he had his opportunity.

Opportunity is a great friend of us—if we recognize it.

Opportunity changes the battle of Winchester from defeat to victory; it is the Plinian that obliterates rivers from the map; it puts to rout the armies of the alien; it turns the bank of the foe by stratagem; it controls circumstances, and makes a way for itself.

Young man—

Opportunity is tapping. Keep your ears open!

Keep your EYES open. You may be able to see Opportunity before it knocks at your door—while it knocks at some other man's door. Let the other man turn over in bed and pay no attention when Opportunity comes calling. Let him shut his eyes and go to sleep.

Sheridan never did that. Nor Peter Cooper. Nor Andrew Carnegie.

The successful ones, every time and everywhere, kept eyes and ears both open, everywhere and all the time.

O butcher, spare that steer! Touch not a single horn! We've worn, for half a year, to live on beans and corn; to live on oatmeal cake, and prunes and bacon-bottash; no more for us the steak, no more the corn beef hash! O butcher, if you're tired, prepare to shoo them now! We look upon your steers, we contemplate your cow; for steaks, we roast; we young, the grub of yesterday, and then in anguish turn, and eat a bale of hay. This life seems gay and drear, as some December dawn; the cabbage wagon's hero, and we must all climb on. O butcher, spare that mule—they won't be accustomed! We're making it a rule to eat, no wiener wurst; no food our lips shall pass, that's gained by shooting blood; by day we live on grass, by night we chew the end. We dietary wrecks out grass, upon our knees, from the trees. So, butcher, spare that cow that fell into your snare; spring chicken does not go, upon our bill of fare. We long for good lean meat, but longing will not wash; for us the gandy boar, for us the pallid squash!

CHARGED WITH SALE OF OBSCENE PHOTOS

Tom Varg, Proprietor of Candy Stand on West Milwaukee Street, Placed Under Arrest Today.

Tom Varg, proprietor of the peanut and confectionery stand near the corner of West Milwaukee and High Streets, was arrested this morning on the charge of unlawfully having in his possession and selling and distributing obscene pictures of a character manifestly tending to corrupt the youth of the city. The Greek was accompanied to the city hall by an interpreter but the latter, after taking one glance at the circumstantial evidence against the man, declared that he would have no more to do with the case and took him.

The evidence in the hands of the district attorney consists of two photographs and a post card which are alleged to have been sold to Bert Sherman, who works at Gray's pop factory, on January 15. Mrs. Melchini Grifith, who made a hostile demonstration in the store on the night of Feb. 11, and her daughter, Matilda, who is supposed to have been present with a picture which was the cause of the disturbance, as well as a youth named Mike Monahan who is said to have been hanging about the place and to have been a witness of the transaction, have been subpoenaed to appear that the examination of Varg which is set for Monday afternoon at 1:30.

Sweeping denial of the charges is made by the Greek who declares that he never saw or sold the pictures in question. His bail was fixed at $500 and unless a nephew from Deloit or some of his countrymen in this city come to the rescue and provide the bonds, he will have to spend the intervening time in the county jail.

BELOIT FIVE AGAIN
BEATEN BY LOCALS

High School Basketball Team Ran Away With Line City Squad,

45 to 19.

The Janesville high school basketball team administered a second beating to the Beloit high school five in Beloit last night, defeating them by a score of 45 to 19. The score last evening was larger than in the first game on the local floor, when Beloit made 21 points and Janesville 15. The Beloit team had hoped to be able to defeat the Janesville players and were confidently expecting a victory, but from start to finish, the Line City squad was completely outclassed. Murphy starred in the first half by brilliant basket throwing, making five goals from the field and six from free throws. The Dower City quintet secured a lead over their opponents in the first half, of nineteen points, running up a score of 28 to 19. In the second half Janesville got seventeen more points and Beloit ten.

The teams lined up as follows: Janesville: Murphy, right forward; Korst, left forward; Willhord, center; Green, right guard; MacDonald, left guard. Beloit: Carey, right forward; Rubin, left forward; Ballard, center; Charrity, right guard; Van Camp, left guard. Field goals: Murphy, 6; Korst, 6; Willhord, 1; Carey, 3; Rabton, 2; MacDonald, 2; Green, 1; Ballard, 1. Free throws: Murphy, 7; Rabton, 5. Referee: Bird, Umpire: Flynn, Scorers: Hemming and Willhord. Time-keeper: Knudson.

Delayed Trains Prevented Chicago
Basketball Team From Getting
Here in Time to Play.

The largest crowd that ever assembled in the rink was present last evening to witness the game scheduled between the "Cardinals" and the Chicago "Cubs," and then after waiting a considerable time, were disappointed, the Windy City five not appearing until so late, on account of delayed trains, that the game was postponed until later in the season. However, Manager Connors of the rink made good, and all who assembled were given a rain check which will be accepted at later games. The "Cardinals" will play two games next week—one on Wednesday night, and another contest on Saturday.

FARMHOUSE ON THE
HAZARD FARM BURNS

Home of Elmer Coon, South of Milton Junction, Destroyed by Flames This Morning.

The farmhouse on the Hazard farm, about one and a half miles south of Milton Junction, and at present occupied by Elmer Coon and his family, was almost entirely destroyed by fire this morning. The fire started early this morning, though what caused it is unknown. Some of the furnishings were saved. The Milton Junction fire department went to the fire and worked hard and prevented the fire from spreading to the barns and other buildings nearby. The loss is estimated at $2,000.

The farm where the fire occurred is well known to many of the older residents of Rock county, it got the name of the Hazard farm from Mr. Hazard, who received a grant of the land from the United States government in early days.

LOCAL YARDS MAY BE BLOCKED AGAIN

Required to Handle Full Tonnage
While Half Tonnage is Rule at Other Points.

Believing that the Janesville yards of the North-Western Ry. are capable of handling more traffic than any other yards between Chicago and the Twin Cities, officials have permitted full tonnage to be pulled into this city from both the north and south while other points are required to handle only half tonnage or even less. In consequence, the new yards in this city are badly blocked and the present condition is similar to that experienced during the fall rush and the December blockade.

Switchmen are working with might and main in an attempt to keep the yards open and numerous trains are being sent out daily, but it is impossible to switch cars and make up trains fast enough to keep pace with the heavy incoming traffic. The new engine "Z" engines, capable of drawing two thousand tons and more, all up the tracks as fast as they are cleared. Although the sidetracks at South Janesville are of considerable length, a train drawn by one of the new "zebras" is capable of filling at least two of the tracks.

SPECIAL SERMONS ON
STUDY OF THE BIBLE

Beginning Next Sunday Morning, Dr. Seaton Will Deliver First of Series of Lectures to Men.

The literary study of the Bible is one of the most fascinating and instructive ways of getting at the real meaning of the inspired book. Many people think such a study detracts from the divine character of the Bible, placing it as it were, on a level with secular literature. This is a complete misapprehension of its purpose and result. It is rather a challenge to judge the inspired record by the great tests of worth and charm which belong to all great literatures, and a reminder of the simple historical facts relating to the composition of the book. But it is more; it reminds us that the vital, human and divine themes and interests of the Bible must first be understood by human reason, and felt in their power, both spiritual and moral, before they can control and beautify our lives. These themes will be the subject of the special sermon to be delivered by Dr. Seaton at the request of the Men's Bible Study class in the First Congregational church on Sunday next at 10:30 a. m. All men, both young and old, are particularly invited to be present.

GREEK LETTER SOCIETY
CAVE DANCING PARTY

Members of Kappa Sigma Phi and Their Guests Had Delightful Evening at East Side Hall.

Knoff & Hatch's orchestra furnished the musical program for a very enjoyable dancing party given by the members of the Kappa Sigma Phi Greek letter society at East Side Hall last evening. Several from out of town participated in the festivities.

MISS RUTH FIFIELD

A Janesville young lady, Miss Ruth Fifield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fifield, has won honor for herself at Vassar College, one of the largest women's colleges in the country, by her excellence in her studies there. Miss Fifield was one of the "honors" pupils at the school this year; that is, one of twenty-four young women whose standings in their classes were high. Miss Fifield is a graduate of the Janesville High school of 1905, acting as president of her class in the Senior year. During her high school career she was ranked as one of the best scholars in her class. It is a distinctive honor which has been conferred upon her.

Salvation Army Meeting: The lecture given by Col. Stephen Marshall, the chief executive for this district of the Salvation Army, at the hall last evening, proved very interesting and there was a good attendance.

BRIEF LOCAL NOTES.

Tough Old Character: Alex. Schramm, a tough looking old white-haired and white whiskered beggar who heaped foul and abusive language upon the officers when arrested and locked up for drunkenness last evening, was fined $2 and costs in municipal court this morning but given a chance to "heat it" good and fast under a suspended sentence. James Huy, on whom the same fine was imposed for belling too freely, was allowed to go to a bank and get the three dollars.

Rockford Moose Hunt: Among the Rockford Moose who participated in the initiatory rites last evening were: Dr. McDonald, Dictator; J. H. Blahney, Vice Dictator and manager of the deer team; George E. Hall, a former Janesville resident; Prelate; Fred Schmidt, Past Dictator; Carl Larsen, Captain of the deer team; Jack Purcell, Roy Highenthal, L. L. Wade, Frank Cole, and Landlord Billie of the Commercial House.

Train Delayed: Train number 507 on the North-Western, the paper train, came here from Chicago at 5:30 a. m. but met with an accident at Capron, Ill., and did not arrive in Janesville until 8:45. The engine, locomotive and the train was held until another engine could be sent to Capron from Harvard.

Marriage License: A marriage license was issued today to Francis A. Mills of the town of Lima and Belle Nowman of Janesville.

Special Sunday Services: Tomorrow morning the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution will attend the services at the Presbyterian church in a body. An especially prepared program will be given.

In the evening the pastor will deliver an evening sermon on "Why We Have a Bible."

The sermon will illustrate the effect of the different nonChristian religions on the people.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to come.

Robert Pearsall to Sing: Robert Pearsall of Evansville, soloist with the Beloit College Glee club, will sing at the Presbyterian church tomorrow and at the Baptist and Methodist churches in the evening. Mr. Pearsall possesses a fine baritone voice and his numbers are certain to be highly appreciated.

GAMES AT THE Y. M. C. A.
BUILDING THIS MORNING

The Yale kickball team bested the Oxford nine at the Y. M. C. A. building this morning 7 to 6. D. B. Junior basketball games resulted in victories for Atwood over Dalton's five, 9 to 2; and Atwood over Sayles' 10 to 2. The Sayles team played with but three men against a five-man team. Goals from the field were made by Stewart, 2; Crow, 2; Green, Drew, McGuire, Fred Rau and Mason. Free throws: W. Rau, 1; Green, Fred Rau, Laughlin, McElgue and Mills, one each.

Character Does Count.

Dumont Clarke began work as a clerk in the American Exchange bank of this city 30 years ago. When he died last week he had been president of the bank 12 years. His chief quest to his son was an absolutely clean record. He conducted the affairs of the bank solely in the interest of the depositors, whom he protected in times of stress, and of the stockholders, of whom he was but one of many. Because he never did a dishonorable, mean or unkindly act there has not been a discordant note in the silence and universal tribute paid to his memory. His death marks a real loss to the community. It also affords a plain lesson that character does count after all.—Harper's Weekly.

MAY ROBSON, STARRING IN "THE REJUVENATION OF AUNT MARY"

In one in which there is a great human interest. In "The Battle"—despite the opposition of the millionaire's argument—the author succeeds in successfully giving both sides of the industrial question, and he plays the logical socialist against the hard-hearted man of business with good effect.

May Robson in "The Rejuvenation of

"Aunt Mary."

On Wednesday evening, February 23, at the Myers Theatre, May Robson will be seen in her great success, "The Rejuvenation" of "Aunt Mary." Miss Robson has played this delightful comedy for the past two seasons from coast to coast. In this quaint play of Aunt Mary Miss Robson has a part that is fitted to her like a glove. DENVERITE TO SEE ROOSEVELT.
Hopes to Induce Colonel to Visit West on His Return.

New York, Feb. 19.—The west is "after" Col. Roosevelt and it is going after him in the real western way, regardless of expense or anything else.

When the colonel steps off the launch at Khartoum on the Nile, he will find waiting for him Fred G. Bonelli, who will hand him a stack of encrossed invitations, which call for the return of the ex-president via San Francisco and all the other western cities.

Mr. Bonelli, who is a wealthy newspaper owner of Denver, sails for Cheyenne on the American River St. Louis, with Khartoum as the objective point. Mr. Bonelli hopes that the invitations which he bears will cause the colonel to alter his plans and return to this country by way of San Francisco.

IS ARRESTED, FOR EXTORTION.
Anton Marlon Shoots Himself and Will Probably Die.

Janesville, Ind., Feb. 19.—Anton Marlon, alias Dr. Louis de Rickett, aged 38 years, wanted in Chicago, on the alleged charge of extortion, shot himself here and will probably die. Marlon's arrest was the result of the untiring work and plucky pursuit of Philip Schaffer, a Chicago boy, who claims the wounded man, who says he is a spiritualist and a medium, is dead. Mrs. C. Elliott of Chicago, out of a large sum of money, it is said Marlon is also wanted in Chicago on other charges.

"HIGHER UP MEN" UNPROTECTED
Big Four Attorney Warns Against Further Slanderous Rumors.

Cincinnati, Feb. 19.—Goaded into action by repeated rumors recently that "men higher up" were being protected in the Wuriner prosecution, Judge J. L. Hackney, general counsel for the Big Four railroad, issued a statement denouncing the rumors to be false, and intimating legal action if what he terms "continued repetitions of slanders and destruction of character" did not stop.

National Ski Tournament Begins.
Colorado, Mon., Feb. 19.—The national ski tournament opened here today with a long list of entries including the names of the best jumpers in the country. All the leading ski men of the northwest are competing, as well as a large number of jumpers sent to represent clubs. The scene is most interesting, the snow-covered slopes above the town being covered with jumpers trying for the prizes or practicing, and with thousands of spectators. The contests close tomorrow. A national ski convention will be held to-morrow and Monday.

VOTERS DESIRE ANOTHER TERM FOR DAVIDSON

ing the vote of the La Follette faction, Governor Davidson could be prevented from getting a plurality, seems the height of absurdity, La Follette himself, saw this situation developing and he made the most earnest efforts to forestall it, by seeking to get his supporters to unite upon one man to oppose Davidson. The La Follette people, however, never were able to agree among themselves, and they also persisted in thinking that Taylor was wedded to the plan of retiring from politics, so they thought they could monopolize the campaign and have a merry little strife among themselves and after one of them had nabbed the nomination the whole blooming faction would turn to and help whip the democrats.

Now they have a merry strife indeed, and as a result the democrats are developing hope for their own chances and will have to resort to means which it is hoped will keep democrats out of republican primaries, another circumstance disconcerting to the La Follette people, for they recall that it was by democratic votes that La Follette won many a Wisconsin people, however, never were able to agree among themselves, and they also persisted in thinking that Taylor was wedded to the plan of retiring from politics, so they thought they could monopolize the campaign and have a merry little strife among themselves and after one of them had nabbed the nomination the whole blooming faction would turn to and help whip the democrats.

The situation right now is one of greatest compunction on the part of the Davidson people, while Senator

La Follette is worried and has sent word that he will be in this state for three weeks this spring to attend to things. How he will be able to tear himself away from the senate is a matter of wonderment, but nevertheless indicates how seriously the senator considers the situation in Wisconsin to be. That the opponents of La Follette will put up a candidate against him for the senate seems probable, for the chance of retiring the vigorous little insurgent is thought to be good, but as yet no candidate has been selected. Ex-Congressman S. A.

Cook of Neenah is willing to make the race, ex-Governor Board of Edition Atchison would make a good candidate, but is reluctant to make a fight time far along in his life. The other day he celebrated his golden wedding anniversary. L. H. Harvey, the inique-educator at Menomonie, is mentioned, but he desires to continue his excellent educational work rather than engage in political strife for which he has no taste.

The prospect of Governor Davidson being a candidate again promises that all but of the present state officers will seek renomination. Lieutenant Governor Strange will of course not seek that office again, being in the field for the gubernatorial nomination,
but Secretary of State Frear, State
Treasurer Dahl and Insurance
Commissioner Beedle will try to hold on to their jobs. Attorney General Gilbert will be an announced candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the second district against insurgent John M. Nelson. It appeared some time ago that Insurance Commissioner Beedle had agreed with his deputy, Herman L. Erdm of Trempealeau county, that the latter should run for the nomination, but Beedle seems to have concluded that if nearly all the other state officers can manage to run for third terms he also can afford to do it.

There will be a merry canvas for the republican nomination for attorney general, between A. C. Thus, first assistant attorney general, and Frank T. Tucker, second assistant attorney general. Mr. Thus hails from Superior and has the support of the present governor, and is probably a well-known member of the La Follette faction. Mr.
Tucker comes from Oconto, up near Oshkosh, has also practiced law in Nashville, Clark county, but almost continuously during the fourteen years that he has been out of the university law school he has passed in public office. It is said that La Follette demanded of Thus that the latter break with Gilbert and Davidson and upon Mr. Thus' refusal to complicate his own campaign with others, La Follette secretly encouraged Tucker to bring his candidacy into the ring. This canvass will be watched with great interest.

Neither James A. Frear of Hudson,

St. Croix county, present secretary of state, nor A. H. Dahl of Wausau, Vernon county, present state treasurer, has made an announcement of candidacy for a third term, but their friends have made it known that each of the earnest debrs of holding on.

Dahl and Frear both listed with the governorship, and Frear was mentioned for La Follette's place in the Senate, but the encouragement has been so mild that each seems to have settled back upon grim determination to hold the chair he now occupies.

"This Big Car Can Be Run 5,000 Miles a Year at an Average Total Cost of $3.98 a Week"

HERE is a BIG 4-Cylinder, 30-H. P. Five-Passenger Touring Car that will interest thousands of men who have always considered an automobile beyond their means—NOT because they couldn't afford to BUY one, but because they have felt they couldn't afford the cost of MAINTAINING one. It is a fact that the expensive "up-keep" of most automobiles has put them beyond the reach of men with MODERATE INCOMES. Not so with the Maxwell. These cars have always been the MOST ECONOMICAL TO RUN as over 20,700 Maxwell owners have proved. From year to year Maxwell cars have been improved in every smallest detail that would REDUCE THEIR OPERATING EXPENSE—increasing strength and durability, decreasing weight and simplifying construction.

We are satisfied that in the new 4-cylinder, 30 H. P. Touring Car we have the "Great Economy Car." In proof, we give you the ACTUAL FIGURES showing for HOW LITTLE this car can be run. THIS is what every man wants to know about a car—how much it actually COSTS TO RUN. And this is just what you DON'T find out about OTHER automobiles—BEFORE you buy them.

Figures
Based
on Facts

When we tell you that this big, handsome Maxwell Touring Car can be run 5,000 miles a year at an average total cost of $3.98 a week (or $207.02 a year) we are not theorizing. These figures include the total cost of the gasoline, oil and grease required to run this car 5,000 miles; the cost of punctures, the cost of two extra tires, complete (which may not be needed), and the cost of repairs. Experience shows this to be a correct average established by Maxwell owners. How can we better show the low cost of keeping a Maxwell than by giving in dollars and cents just what 5,000 miles of motorizing cost this owner?

"I have driven my car 5,000 miles by the odometer, averaging approximately 100 miles a week. My experience has shown that this big car can be run 5,000 miles a year at an average total cost of $3.98 a week.

Gasoline, 375 gallons	$ 65.26
Oil, half barrel	15.00
Grease, 10 pounds	2.00
Punctures, seven	3.50
Repairs	7.40
Two extra tires complete (casings and tubes)	113.88
	$207.02

"My running cost has actually been lower than the above figures, because at the beginning of the season I bought two extra casings and tubes. As a matter of fact, but one of these has been used, so that the car has cost me per week, including everything, but $3.00.

"R. L. CALKINS."

NOTE—Please note the above letter sent on request.

We Help
Maxwell
Owners

Proper care is of vital importance in keeping down the cost of maintenance in any car. More automobiles are ruined by misuse than in any other way. We send out regularly, a semi-monthly magazine for Maxwell owners to show them how to run their cars as economically as possible.

To run this big Maxwell at the low cost stated you must run it with proper care. In giving the above figures we have tried to be broad-minded enough not to attempt to fool ourselves. We do not guarantee that every one will run this Maxwell at the above stated cost—it is an average, but many Maxwell owners to even better. Moreover, these figures of course do not include the natural depreciation in value from year to year—but which even the automobile trade admits is remarkably low in Maxwell cars.

STUDENTS ARE NOT AROUSED OVER LOSS

Disqualification of Captain Osthoff of Track Team Too Old a Tale to Trouble Them.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—Such an old tale at the University of Wisconsin has become the knocking out of star athletes by members of the faculty, that even such a casualty as the falling of the captain of the track team, Oscar Osthoff, has failed to arouse the students. A contributing reason for this lack of interest in the failure of Captain Osthoff was the prevalence this week of the great amateur Junior promenade and accompanying functions. Students were so engrossed with things, social, that they had not time to be sorry for "Ostie." He was given a black eye in an important course in geology and the reason is said to lie in the fact that on many an afternoon last fall he was out on the football field getting hard knocks in the practice when he would have pleased his instructor more if he had been knocking around a stone quarry gathering geological specimens. Coach Jim Lathrop went to see Osthoff and some things are now going on purposed to restore the star jumper and weight thrower to eligibility, and the changes are said to be alibi.

Another athletic event of the past week that has failed to wake up the Badger students was the outbreak, of Dr. Charles McCarthy, voluntary assistant football coach who charged that Coach Harry Williams of Minnesota was in a wicked conspiracy with big eastern university representatives on the rules committee to cut the liver out of the forward pass and the "new open game," what that means, Dr. McCarthy, a dozen years ago, was a star at Brown University and since coming out here has injected himself into football and other activities, sometimes with admirable success, such as his enterprise in taking the university baseball team to Japan. But at other times he has made a spectacle of himself approaching the ridiculous, and his charge of "conspiracy" against the Minnesota coach seems to have so struck the Wisconsin students, some of whom are remarking that during the days of the "old game" denounced by Dr. McCarthy and admired by Dr. Williams, Wisconsin once in a while won at least some claim on the title of champion.

30 YEARS OF SUCCESS

The Smith Drug Co. Offer a Remedy for Catarrh. The Medicine Costs Nothing if It Fails.

When a medicine offers a successful treatment in a very large majority of cases, and when we offer that medicine on our own personal guarantee that it will cost the user nothing if it does not completely relieve catarrh, it is only reasonable that people should believe us, or at least put our claim to a practical test when we take off the risk. These are facts which we want the people to substantiate. We want them to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, a medicine prepared from a prescription of a physician with whom catarrh was a specialty, and who has a record of thirty years of reliable success to his credit.

We receive more good reports about Rexall Mucu-Tone than we do of all other catarrh remedies sold in our store, and if more people only knew where a thoroughly dependable remedy Rexall Mucu-Tone is, it would be the only catarrh remedy we would have any demand for.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is quickly absorbed and by its therapeutic effect tends to dislodge and cleanse the entire mucous membranes, tract, to destroy and remove the parasites which injure the mucous tissues, to soothe the irritation and heal the soreness, stop the mucous discharge, build up strong, healthy tissue and relieve the blood and system of diseased matter. Its influence is toward stimulating the mucous cells, aiding digestion and improving nutrition until the whole body vibrates with healthy activity. In a comparatively short time it brings about a noticeable gain in weight, strength, good color and feeling of buoyancy.

We urge you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone, beginning a treatment today. At any time you are not satisfied, simply come and tell us, and we will quickly return your money without question or quibble. We have Rexall Mucu-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Janesville only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

O H, mother doesn't approve of him at all. She never lets me bring him to the house."

That's what a girl told me the other day when I asked her what her mother thought of the man who wanted her to marry him.

"Does she know you see him every day in the city?" I asked.

"Oh, yes," she answered, "she says I'm of age so she can't prevent that, but she won't let me bring him to the house."

Can you imagine a more shortsighted and foolish course for a mother to pursue?

To allow her daughter to meet the man, she—the mother—disapproved of and distrusted, on the street, at the theatre, at the dance, anywhere, everywhere, good people know where, except in the only perfectly safe place—her own home.

Can you think of a better way to make love to dumper?

It seems to me that if I had a daughter who insisted on making a friend of someone of whom she knew I disapproved, I would ask but one thing of her and that would be to meet him always in her home instead of never.

You, I know I haven't a daughter, so I don't know some things that mothers do.

But I am a newspaper woman, so I do know some things that most mothers don't.

The other day I heard a man complaining because the newspaper had copied the idea another paper had originated of having a Santa Claus department to receive and give away money at Christmas time.

"I couldn't be the first to do a thing I wouldn't do at all," he sneered. "I think that's an entirely wrong attitude.

Originally odds, of course, to the value of an idea, but the notion that an idea must be original to have any value, is the conception of a small mind.

The mind that blazes its own path is the greatest, of course, but the mind that sees the new path is good and follows it is greater than the mind that prefers to keep its own worn-out and roundabout path rather than be follower of the new one.

A man connected with one of the biggest theatrical syndicates in the country told me that his rival had recently adopted the policy of entering directly to the tastes of women and children, and that he, seeing it had paid, intended to adopt the same policy.

"Of course I'm copying," he said, "but I believe in thinking up all the good things you can and then copying everyone else's good things too."

On the whole I should think that would work out better as a business policy than securing any good idea just because it happened to come to someone else first.

Why not follow two great bard's examples?

"When 'Cæsar smote his blamin' tyre'

'Ed heard men sing by fiddle and sea'

And what 't thought 'e might require,

'I went and took the statue in me.'

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Janesville Readers Are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty.

When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick.

Backache and many kidney ills follow:

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all.

Janesville people endorse our claim.

Mrs. James Plantz, 203 S. Main St., Janesville, Wisc., says: "For some time I was run down and I was very nervous. Upon examination, my kidneys were found to be weak, and deciding to try a kidney tonic, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. I used them as directed and I can say that I am very much pleased with the results obtained. I am feeling so much better now, that do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as an excellent kidney remedy."

Walking Dress for Early Spring Afternoon.

The sylphine features of the Russian style are seen in an attractive street spring suit model to be developed in mohair or lightweight serge. The skirt, of comfortable length for walking, has a pointed tablier. Brocade at the back and front with double box plaiting, affording plenty of width about the feet, and the blouse-trim is rendered trim.

Nothing equals the normal watertightness of the sylphine.

The tendency to deform in many of the high-class suits imported from Paris, and in none more so than in those affected by nutrions who wish to emphasize the youthful lines of the figure. A medium shade of mohair is needed for a smart little walking costume having a skirt laid in box plait of moderate width and a high-necked jacket trimmed with mohair-covered buttons set off by a more elaborate embroidery with gold soutache. The mode horsehair turban is draped with piece velvet of a matching shade.

You need not suffer from sickness, and you need not fill yourself with drugs in order to be made well.

The great new set of Chiropractic books has shown the world that in order to be made well and to remain well it is necessary to remove the cause of disease and that treating symptoms with medicine is not an practice of the Chiropractor. Every nerve in the entire body which controls every function and organ of the entire human system and every nerve in the body has a definite function. When certain nerves do not perform their functions you become sick. The way to remove the cause of the sickness is to get at the nerves that are not working. This is done by Chiropractic adjustments of the spine. Almost every ailment is caused by a spinal condition. If you suffer from sickness of any kind, call for free consultation and advice.

MOOSE LODGE HELD
ENJOYABLE MEETINGSeventy New Members Were Initiated
—Rockford Degree Team Present
—Quarter Song.

Seventy new members were initiated into the local lodge of the Loyalty Order of Moose at an enthusiastic meeting held in Assembly Hall last evening. The Rockford Degree team, who came to this city in a special car, had charge of the degree work and succeeded in leading the new members through the forest.

The Janeville lodge of Moose now numbers 350 and a determined effort will be made in the next two weeks to increase the membership to 500 before the charter is closed. In addition to the initiation other important business was transacted, including the appointment of a committee of nine who will look into the matter of securing available club rooms in the city and make a report at the next meeting which will be held in East Side Old Fellow's Hall next Wednesday evening.

A pleasant feature of last night's meeting was the singing of the newly organized Moose quartet, composed of Prof. W. T. Thiele, Edmund Leney, George Esser and A. J. Hanuskin. The singers rendered several selections which were received with much applause.

The idea of employing a permanent secretary to look after the city's business interests is not a new one. In fact, it is merely following along the lines of every progressive business institution in the country. Just at present the use that such a secretary could be to the community is illustrated by the efforts being made to bring another factory to the city—the automobile concern.

Speaking of this automobile concern, the Monitor Company of Chicago, it is believed to know that it is almost certain that it will move to Janeville. Men well versed in business and financial matters who have carefully examined into the conditions of this company, state publicly that it is a first-class concern that has a great future and that Janeville should not miss this opportunity of becoming its home.

It might be said right here that the automobile truck and delivery car manufacture is in its infancy. The future is most flattering and Janeville has an opportunity of getting in on the ground floor, so to speak, the game at its inception. It is too good an opportunity to lose sight of it.

It means the bringing to Janeville of many families of skilled workmen and the steady employment the year round of at least seventy-five men to start with.

With the city street car line ready to be rejuvenated, under the management of the new owners, an international road to Madison, with a state franchise already secured and promise of actual construction work this summer, the North-Western assorting yards, handling more business every day and promises of a through train on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road from Chicago to Minneapolis via St. Paul, Janeville in the transportation way, is being cared for.

Nor must we forget the Rock River Improvement Association and the work they seek to accomplish by opening the Rock river from Janeville to the Mississippi river traffic. Here is a new field, doubtful, perhaps, with too much taken for granted, but still something to talk about when comparing and looking Janeville as the coming metropolis of northern Wisconsin.

It is cold and cheerless these days and we can but dream of the parks and summer, but still it is not too early to plan for the summer. It is not too early to plan for the enjoyment of the coming season. While we are looking Janeville, attracting outside capital and foreign industries, let us have made at home, we are told that "make bath charms" and we appreciate the fact. Years ago Janeville had a band that was famous the country over. We have just as good musicians today; the only trouble is that we do not, as a city, encourage them enough.

Why not make arrangements now for a series of summer concerts? Why not plan for the summer entertainment? It will take the mind from the bleak disappointment of the groundhog's useless prophecy and from the snow and ice of the present days. It would encourage the band and would give delight to the citizens generally as well as advertise the city to strangers. Think it over; it is worth considering.

While we are planning for the future stop for a moment and consider the sports. Last summer there was formed a Commercial baseball league in the city that gave Saturday afternoon games, and good ones too, from June until September. They were enjoyed by citizens generally and gave a pleasant "out of doors" recreation on Saturday afternoons.

He is also perfectly devoted and would bark angrily if anybody tried to prevent him from following his master except on such days as yesterday and today. On such days he sets up when his master is leaving the cozy headquarters, meditates for a few moments, and then right down again.

His reputation as "ratter" suffered considerably on one occasion when he slept at the foot of his master's bed and, allowed a hungry rodent to eat the cuff off of a trouser leg that was left dangling over the footboard. But even the gods nod sometimes.

"Rox" has seen some of his fellow creatures tied to a wagon wheel and executed back of the city hall. For that reason he does not enjoy having anything pointed at him. IN FOOD
What a Clergyman's Wife Found.

The wife of a Minnesota clergyman found the solution of her troubles in a simple change of food of which she says:

"My case proves that proper food will cure almost any ail. For years I suffered from dyspepsia which became chronic and was treated by some of the most skillful physicians but was not cured.

"Medicine would help for a time but the old troubles would always return because the cause was still there and kept me weak and sickly most of the time. I had the grip every year for five years, always suffered from colds and my whole condition showed that I did not get the proper nourishment from food.

"I suddenly began eating Grapes-Nuts according to directions. I may say that since that time my stomach has not troubled me at all but a remarkable change took place. All through the long cold winter I ate nothing but a sweater of Grapes Nuts and cream in the morning and no matter how severe the cold I did not suffer and I did not have the grip or even a cold.

"Grapes-Nuts food certainly nourishes me until I have a strong constitution, feel like a new person and indeed never was healthier in my life."

MOOSE LODGE HELD
ENJOYABLE MEETINGLittle Buying Going on According to Edgerton Tobacco Jour-

—Quarter Song.

There is some buying of last year's crop quietly going on but mostly at prices below the general average. Sometimes it is rejections of early purchases, for export "purchases" by independent packers who are unable to invest on a safety basis, but altogether it is a rather sluggish movement. John L. Linn, gold 139-1/2 and 2c, and we might "quarantine" other sales at similar figures?"

The old leaf market continues to run in sluggish channels. A moderate amount of business on small orders is being done, but nothing like the old time activity is noticeable. N. Gillan added about 200 cts. to his purchases before leaving for his Pennsylvania home this week.

Receiving of the crop now occupies the main business of the large operators, who are naming delivery days as often as their storage facilities will warrant. Warehouse work, too, is progressing as rapidly as the packing points as the help situation will permit. There is call for more sorters in this market and apparently work in sight for long season.

The shipments at Edgerton give a fair idea of the amount of business being done during the rush of the tobacco season. There has been forwarded 1113 cts. and 9 cts. of bundles for the week past. Since last report 12 cts. have been ready from outside points for handling in this market.

A ample of days more of cashing wheat this week has given an opportunity for the belated growers to remove the last of their hanging tobacco from the sheds. The season generally has been favorable for getting the crop out of the curing barns for stripping so that growers have been ready for delivery at an earlier date than the average for a series of years. Often times it is well towards spring before the farmers had all their tobacco prepared for market, even when it has been sold under contract. It is quite likely that 25 per cent of the '09 crop is now ready for market if dealers were able to receive it, but it is impossible for them to receive it much faster than their storage facilities at the packing centers will accommodate, and hence delivery will doubtless extend through a couple of months yet. It should be remembered that a larger proportion of last season's crop was sold for bundle delivery than in most recent years, save that of the '08 crop. Packers, too, are giving the present crop a more careful assorting than heretofore which is made necessary because of the shed barn, high "case," green and frosted leaf found in most crops that must come out to make a uniform packing. When sorting has to be resorted to instead of the usual "sizing," warehouse handling proceeds slower and the season is prolonged, involving also increased expenses in packing, which few, if any, figured on when contracts were made nearly six months ago.

Tidings.

Attorney Charles E. Pierce, who returned this week from a trip to California to attend to some litigation in Los Angeles, brings back to "Jim" McLean's democratic friends the startling tidings that Mr. McLean is now voting the republican ticket and has been doing so for two years past. There are only two parties in Los Angeles—the republicans and the so-called "Long Hairs," an ultra reform organization which is temporarily in the saddle. Mr. and Mrs. McLean are making a great success of the hotel business and the former is having nothing whatever to do with politics beyond casting his vote.

At Pasadena, Mr. Pierce was staying with the family of Ward Stevens, former Rock county clerk of court and present city attorney of Azusa, Los Angeles county. The latter's pathway, also, is lined with roses. He is coming back to Wisconsin for a visit the coming summer.

CHAPTER VII.

An Affair at the Statehouse.

Barbara fled the messages herself with the manager of the telegraph company, who lifted the green shade from his eyes and smiled upon her.

"We'll rush them, Miss Osborne. Shall I telephone the answers if they come to-night? No; your father likes his telegrams delivered, I remember."

"I will call for them," said Griswold.

"Gov. Osborne was only at home a few hours this evening and he left me in charge of these matters."

The manager's face expressed surprise.

"Oh! I didn't know the governor was at home," he remarked, as he finished counting the words and charging them against the state's account.

"I will send them, myself, and ask the operators at the other end to look lively about the answers. You are sure?"

"This is Maj. Griswold," said Barbara, conferring the title with a vague feeling that it strengthened her cause.

"Major," repeated the manager, and he nodded to Griswold with an air that implied his familiarity with official secrets. "You will call? In a couple of hours, major."

As Barbara and Griswold turned to leave, a young man who had been writing a message at the standing desk in the lobby lifted his hat and addressed Barbara. He was a reporter for the Columbia Intelligencer, and his manner was eager.

"Oh, Miss Osborne, pardon me, but I've been trying to get you on the telephone. Can you tell me where your father is to-night?"

"Father was in town only a few hours, and then left on state business."

"May I ask if it's the Applewhite case? The Raleigh papers have wired for information and we'd like to know how."

"I cannot answer that question. It's enough that the governor is absent on state business and that the business is important. You may print that in the Intelligencer and repeat it to Raleigh. There is no harm in that, Miss Osborne?"

"No; certainly not," Barbara replied.

"But the papers all over the state are talking about the Applewhite gang. They intimate that those people enjoy immunity from prosecution and that the governor—you will pardon me, Miss Osborne—will take no steps to arrest them for personal reasons."

"Your question is quite proper," replied Griswold. "The governor's acts are subject to scrutiny at all times and it is just as well to have this matter understood now. I am employed by the governor as special counsel in some state matters. My name is Griswold. Take out your book and come to the desk here and I will give you a statement which you may publish as by the authority of the governor."

The three found seats at the table and Griswold dictated while the reporter wrote. Barbara meanwhile sitting with her cheek resting against her raised hand. She was experiencing the relief we all know, of finding a strong arm to lean upon in an emergency, and she realized that Griswold was not only wise, but shrewd and resourceful.

"Please print this exactly as I give it. It having been intimated in certain quarters that the Applewhite gang of outlaws, which has been terrorizing the North Carolina frontier for several years, enjoys immunity from prosecution in South Carolina owing to the fact that Gov. Osborne was at some time attorney for Applewhite, Gov. Osborne begs to say that steps have already been taken for the arrest of this man and his followers, dead or alive. The governor presents his compliments to those amiable critics who have so angrily seized upon this pretext for slandering his private character and usurping his official acts. The governor has no apologies to offer the people of South Carolina, who have so generously repaid in him their trust and confidence. He is intent upon safeguarding the peace, dignity and honor of the state through an honest enforcement of law and, he has no other aim or ambition."

Griswold took the reporter's notebook and read over this pronouncement; then he handed it to Barbara, who studied it carefully.

"I think it sounds just right, only, why not substitute for 'honest' the word 'vigorous'?"

"Excellent," assented Griswold, and thus amended the statement was returned to the reporter.

"Now," said Griswold to the young man, "you are getting a pretty good item that no other paper will have. Please wire your story to Raleigh; Gov. Osborne is very anxious that the people up there shall understand fully his attitude in the Applewhite matter."

"I reckon this will wake up old Dan'gerfield all right," said the reporter, grinning. "He'll be paralyzed. May I use your name in this connection, sir?"

"Not at all. My engagement with Gov. Osborne is of the most confidential character and our purposes would be defeated by publicity. However, you get the exclusive use of this story—the return and immediate departure of the governor, his state-

Business Man Suffered Agony—Head, Neck and Shoulders Covered—Became An Object of Dread—Consulted Most Able Doctors and Hospital but Got No Relief.

SURPRISINGLY QUICK CURE BY CUTICURA

"Cuticura did wonders for me. For twenty-five years I suffered agony from a terrible humor, completely covering my head, neck and shoulders, so that to my friends, and even to my wife, I became an object of dread. Consulted most able doctors and hospital but got no relief. Months of suffering and consultation there was no help for me this side of a miracle. Then I heard of some one who had been cured by Cuticura Remedy and thought that a trial could do no harm. In a surprisingly short time I was completely cured." (P. P. With Cuticura when Everything Else had Failed.

"I am very grateful to Cuticura as my daughter had been suffering for eleven months with awful great boils on her body. We tried everything which one could mention but nothing was good. The boils made her very weak and ill and she had to leave her place. After using one tablet of Cuticura, one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Liniment she got quite well again but had the boils since. I should have written to you before but have been waiting to see if she had any sign of any coming back. My daughter is eighteen years old. They were now at the edge of the town and she bade him stop the carriage.

"We must go to the statehouse," said Griswold. "We must get that regulation, to guard against treason in the citadel. Assuming that Gov. Osborne really doesn't want to see Applewhite punished we'd better hold the regulation anyhow. It's possible that your father had it ready—do pardon me!—for a grandstand play, or he may have wanted to bring Applewhite into the friendlier state; but that's all conjectural. We'd better keep out of the principal streets. That reporter has a sharp eye."

She gave the necessary directions and the driver turned back into Columbia. It was pleasant to find his accomplice in this conspiracy a girl of keen wit who did not debate matters or ask tiresome questions. The business ahead was serious enough, though he tried by manner, tone and words to minimize its gravity.

"Have you the 'office keys'?" he asked.

"Please print this exactly as I give it. It having been intimated in certain quarters that the Applewhite gang of outlaws, which has been terrorizing the North Carolina frontier for several years, enjoys immunity from prosecution in South Carolina owing to the fact that Gov. Osborne was at some time attorney for Applewhite, Gov. Osborne begs to say that steps have already been taken for the arrest of this man and his followers, dead or alive. The governor has no apologies to offer the people of South Carolina, who have so generously repaid in him their trust and confidence. He is intent upon safeguarding the peace, dignity and honor of the state through an honest enforcement of law and, he has no other aim or ambition."

"Certainly, Miss Barbara," he pre- ceded them, throwing on the lights, to the governor's door, which he opened with his own keys. "It's pretty lonesome here at night, Miss Barbara."

"I suppose nobody comes at night," remarked Griswold.

"Not usually, sir. But one or two students are at work in the library, and Mr. Bosworth is in his office."

The veteran walked away jingling his keys. Barbara was already in the private office bending over the governor's desk. She found the right key, drew out a drawer, then cried out softly. She knelt beside the desk, throwing the papers about in her eagerness, then turned to Griswold with a white face.

"The drawer has been opened since I was here this morning. The regulation and all the other papers in the case are gone."

Griswold examined the lock carefully and pointed to the roughened edges of the wood.

"A blade of the shears there, or perhaps the paper cutter—who knows?"

The matter is simple enough, so please do not trouble about it. Wait here a moment, I want to make some inquiries of the watchman."

He found the old fellow pacing the portico like a sentry. He pointed out the attorney general's office, threw on a few additional lights for Griswold's guidance, and resumed his patrol duty outside.

The attorney general's door was locked, but in response to Griswold's knock it was opened guardedly.

"I am very sorry to trouble you, Mr. Bosworth," began Griswold, quietly edging his way into the room, "but one never gets wholly away from business these days."

He closed the door himself, and peered into the inner rooms to be sure the attorney general was alone. Bosworth's face flushed angrily when he found that a stranger had thus entered his office with a cool air of proprietorship.

"Who the devil are you?" he demanded, glaring.

"I'm special counsel for Gov. Osborne in the Applewhite case. There's no use in wasting time in further identification, but if you take down that volume on Admiralty Practice just behind you, you will find my name on the title page. Or, to save you the trouble, as you seem to be interested in my appearance, I will tell you that my name is Griswold and that my address is Charlottesville, Va."

"You are undoubtedly lying. If you are smart enough to write a book you ought to know enough about legal procedure to understand that the attorney general represents the state and special counsel would not be chosen without his knowledge."

"Allow me to correct you, my learned brother. You should never quote the opposing counsel—it's one of the rules of the game. What I said a moment ago was that I represented the governor—Gov. Osborne. I didn't say I represented the state, which is a different matter, and beset with ultraviolet pitfalls. There is no earthly reason why a governor should not detach himself, so to speak, from his office and act in propria persona, as a mere citizen."

Bosworth grinned, but not at the legal status of monarchs and states.

"I had thought of a clever stroke and he dealt the blow with confidence.

"Let me assure," he said, "that you represent Mr. Osborne. May I ask the whereabouts of your client?"

"Nothing at all," replied Barbara earnestly.

"I'm at the Saluda house at present. See me to-morrow and I may have another story for you!" and Griswold shook the reporter warmly by the hand as they parted at the carriage door.

"Home," said Barbara for the reporter's benefit, and then, to Griswold, "I must speak of another matter. Drive with me a little way until we can throw the reporter off."

She spoke quietly, but he saw that she was preoccupied with some new phase of the situation, and as the carriage gained headway she said earnestly:

"That young man told the truth—I am sure of it—about Mr. Bosworth. I knew he would do something to injure father if he could, but I did not know he had the courage to go so

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, February 19, 1870.—Jottings.—In the Legislature yesterday there was quite a spicy discussion by Mr. Graham, for, and other Rock county members against, a bill to legalize and authorize assessments for street improvements designed to facilitate the collection of claims for street improvement in Janesville, by Mr. Marston of Milwaukee, which was finally made the special order for today.

A man whose name we understand is Tappan, committed suicide at Footville last night, by taking cyanide. At the recent election for Congressman, Rock county gave David Atwood 1299 votes and 31 scattering.

The trial of Dr. Duvall comes on in the Walworth county Circuit Court about the first of March. Messrs. Patterson and Bennett are for the prosecution and Ebbets and Peck for the defense.

The lecture last evening was in point of numbers a complete success, the church being filled to overflowing. Mr. Gough complained of ill health, and if his address was less impassioned than usual, the cause is doubtless attributable to this fact.

The old subject, Temperance, which has been the main-spring of Mr. Gough's popularity, was his theme. After the lecture, last evening, many repaired to the Saloon at Laporte Hall. Dancing is a most delightful amusement, and restrained within proper limits, as are these Saloons, cannot in any way be objectionable.

FOLDING STAIRS

Can Be Let Down Between Floors or Drawn Up at Will.

An ingenious invention that is a great space-saver is this folding staircase designed for a Kammerman. As will be seen in the illustration, this state works on the laying-on principle and can be drawn up or extended as will fit that is needed for the device is a small opening in the floor large enough to admit a person comfortably. The stairs are then fastened to a post at one end and a pair of spring doors fastened under it to open downward. The opening can be guarded by a cage, if so desired. The apparatus is controlled by a gearing, and when in rest the stairs rest in closed position against the top of the post, while the spring doors are closed beneath it, and no person passing below would know there was a stair there. By turning the crank that operates the stairs however, the stairs are extended, and come down to the floor below, where it rests on rollers. With the hand rail for a support, one may then ascend it in safety. The device is rather hard on book-ends and bill collectors.

CANT PUSH KEY OUT

Little Metal Bar Will frustrate Ablest Burglar's Efforts.

People who lock their bedroom doors to keep burglars out do not always feel safe there. Expert burglars of the Jimmy James way of picking the key out from the outside and picking the lock. To frustrate their efforts in this direction a burglar-proof man has designed a key-fixer, which is as much protection as a big iron bar. This fastener is a thin but strong metal strip in two parts, the lower part shorter than the upper, and attached to the latter pivotally. The upper section, too, is made to fit over the handle of the door, so that when it hangs down the lower section passes through the ring of the key and not only prevents the latter from being pushed out from the outside, but from being turned out from the inside, however. The key is turned as if there was no fastener there through it. In the short section of the fastener fitting readily with the movement of the key, and by turning the latter to one side the fastener may be easily withdrawn. With such device on the door the most nervous woman may sleep in peace.
